

Merging Into One: Loving Self, Others and The Divine

TMI Kallah XX

Creative Expression Workshops

Led by Nancy Weiss, Heather Westendarp, and Miriam Goodman

We want to encourage you, the participants, to bring any supplies that you are particularly drawn to - it could be art supplies, a musical instrument, plain paper and a pen or whatever. It is not about what TYPE of art is created; it is about using the portal of creativity to draw (pardon the pun) you INTO a relationship with Ahavah – Love in the three contexts of self, other and the Divine.

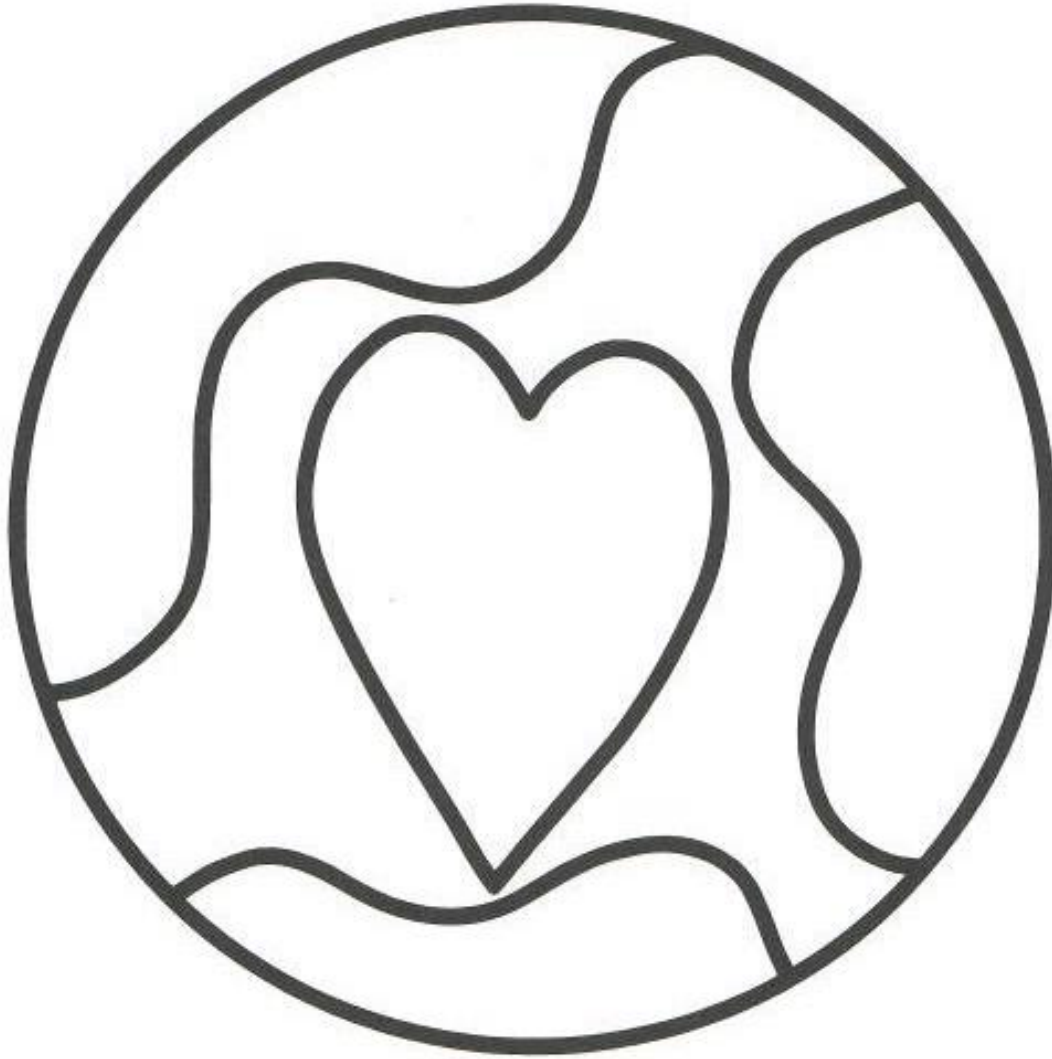

Our hope is that you will consider attending all three workshops and build on a single art piece from the first workshop Ahavah with Self through Ahavah with Other and finally to Ahavah with The Divine. You can certainly choose to attend as many as you would like – this is just how we as the instructors envision it.

That being said, we are including these coloring pages in the event that someone simply wants to color them as their art experience and just keep it simple.

The coloring pages which follow are being used with permission from Marni Goren's Jewish Together Coloring Book - <https://www.instagram.com/jewishtgether/?hl=en>

Merging Into One: Loving Self, Others and The Divine

tikkun olam

Merging Into One: Loving Self, Others and The Divine

